

White Apache: How Healing Began Creation Story as told by Michael Meade

We'Re in COLLAPSE, renewal, CHAOS and creation.

“At critical times of life, the basic elements and energies polarize. As the cloth of civilizations wears thin what is revealed is the underlying tension of opposites that actually existed in the beginning. The place to look for the answers is mythology. The tension of opposites, we can find meaningful reasons in mythology. Creation myths are not intended to explain the making and shaping of things, not to be believed but to be learned from...they can be most valuable source of ideas, energies and of truth, in the way that things matter the most.

...creation begins with a deviation, as an opposition leading to intense conflict. There has been something in the world all along. Disorder — the principal of lies, falseness and dishonesty and dissections has been there all along. They are not out of place, but can learn about the place they have in the world. Ever sense this beginning — this is a myth being enacted.” Michael Meade

Creation is a radical process that leads to inevitable conflicts which leads to opportunity for more creation. We are in a creation moment again..with the tension of opposites in the world right now. Gives us a deeper kind of hope to find our way through. In the beginning there was nothing...then the one who created the earth, and many things began to create. There appeared the rivers and the lakes, the meadows & the valleys, the forests and many kinds of trees. The birds and animals running on their feet. Then people were created. “Here you are, you can live in this land”. They found themselves in a place: Those first people didn't like the place they were in—they don't even have big dreams. That assumes that dreams are an essential part of being human. Because it was so close to creation, the Creator said to them: If you don't like the place you are you can wander about until you find a place that suits you. People have been wandering about ever since then. Finally they rested in a settled place where they had dreams again. This is our place. Everything was good, this was home. Except that in this world, Creator Said, “Things can only stay balanced for a limited time.” So What happened because of this: People began to get ill...most of the first people, and no one knew what it was to be sick so they ignored those sick ones and they lost energy, drifting away day by day.

Four people left the village and each one took a place, facing in a different direction in the darkness as it fell over the earth. The creator was still close by so they heard creator say: For everything on this earth that goes wrong, for every trouble, there is a remedy; for every illness there is a cure...they now had direct knowledge from the one who made the earth...knowledge and healing came at the same time—making things whole.

The four people went back in the village. They lived in the village but each nite they went out and faced their direction until all of them received specific knowledge. They also each received a song. The first song. Creator Said: The people are sick in the village and now you have songs, you should have the people who are sick come and tell the story of creation, and you should sing, so they got the sick people and put them in the center and formed a circle around them, they told all there the story of creation, laid hands on the sick and sang, so that they may renew their lives. The ones who were ill became renewed.

The whole village was renewed.
